1,340 PEOPLE IN SEA GRAVE

Giant Steamer Titanic Strikes an Iceberg.

Was the Initial Trip of Worlds Largest Steamer.

Cape Race, N. F., April 16.—A wireless message tonight from Captain Haddock, of the steamer Olympic, relayed by the Cetral, reads as follows:

"Please advise rumor that the Virginian has any of the Titanic's passengers. Neither has the Tunisian. I believe that the only survivors are on the Carpathia. The second, third, fourth, and fifth officers, and the second Marconi operator are the only officers reported saved."

New York, April 16.—Waiting for wireless reports from the grave of the Titanic and the 1,300 passengers who went down with her, the heartbroken friends and relatives turned away in despair tonight when it was given out that the Government boats sent out to relay messages from the Carpathia, would not be able to get within the wireless zone until late tomorrow.

No one seems to feel that there is any hope for any of the passengers except the 86 said to be aboard the Carpathia, unless some passing steamer should accidentally rescue some of those who might be afloat on wreckage.

PAINT HOPE LEFT FOR MISSING. Only faint hope remains tonight that any of the 1,302 passengers and crew who have been missing since the giant Titanic sank has been picked up by transatlantic liners. The 86 survivors rescued from lifeboats by the Cunarder Carpathia, now on her way to this city, are the only known saved.

The brief and meager wireless messages that came to hand today practically extinguished hope that some of the ill-fated passengers may have been picked up at sea by the steamships Virginian and Parisian of the Allan Line. Both of these steamers set out that they had none of the Titanic's survivors on board.

Of the 86 persons rescued by the Carpathia, the names of 326 passengers had been received by wireless up to 4:30 o'clock. The Carpathia evidently was evidently out of wireless range toward noon, for after that efforts to reach her with wireless communications were futile and a score or more of messages from the Cunard Company and other sources were unanswered.

At 5 o'clock this afternoon Vice President Franklin, of the White Star Line, said that, so far as he knew, the Olympic was still standing by the Carpathia to relay wireless messages. He added that he had received no word from the Olympic since 9 o'clock this morning and had been unable to get either the Carpathia or the Olympic by wireless.

WILL AVOID NORTHERN ROUTE. Mr. Franklin said also that the steamship companies crossing the Atlantic had entered into an agreement to abandon the short Northern route in favor of the Southern route, as long as icebergs were reported in the pathway of the former course.

The dispute from Montreal saying that hope was still entertained there that the Parisian might have aboard some of the Titanic's survivors, Mr. Franklin characterized as "a ridiculous report." He added "that, in my opinion, neither the Parisian nor the Virginian has any survivors aboard."

The Titanic was insured for $5,000,000, Mr. Franklin said. On the ship, he added, the White Star Line would lose about $3,000,000. "This will be the smallest part of our loss," he added.

Captain Haddock, of the Carpathia, in his last wireless report to the Cunard Company stated that his vessel was proceeding slowly through a field of ice to this port.

NAVAL CRUISEERS TO RESCUE. President Taft late this afternoon directed the Secretary of the Navy to order the four cruisers Salem and Chester to the scene at once from Hampton Roads to meet the Carpathia and send in by wireless to the Government a complete list of the Titanic's survivors. The Chester was caught by wireless about 40 miles off the Chesapeake Capes and by 4 o'clock was steaming northward, at 20 knots an hour, aiming to get as quickly as possible into touch with steamers having news bearing on the disaster. Two revenue cutters were also notified to stand in readiness to proceed to the Carpathia if necessary. In the event that the Salem had not sufficient coal, instructions were given to dispatch the cruiser North Carolina instead.

A possible chance of obtaining news bearing upon the disaster developed early this evening when the Leyland liner California came into the zones of wireless communication with Sable Island. The California was reported at the scene of the disaster shortly after the Titanic went down and was thought probable that she would have valuable information to communicate.

Capt. Haddock, of the Carpathia, has been instructed to send full details of the sinking of the Titanic.

TEARFUL CROWDS ON BROADWAY. All day long tearful and anxious throng swarmed the offices of the White Star Line and overflowed into Broadway, stopping traffic at times and keeping police reserves busy maintaining order.

Col. John Jacob Astor is believed to be among those drowned. His wife and her maid are safe on the Carpathia. Isidor Straus, the millionaire merchant, Benjamin Guggenheim, the copper magnate, and Edgar J. Meyer, Vice President of the Braden Copper Company, are still unaccounted for.

DIMENSIONS OF THE VESSEL. It placed lengthwise upon Fourth Street the Titanic would extend from Walnut street to Broadway and be of a height equal to that of the Seelbach Hotel.

The cost of the vessel was approximately $10,000,000. With a register of 45,900 tons, the vessel had a displacement of 61,000 tons.

She was 882 1/2 feet, about one-sixth of a mile, in length, 92 1/2 feet in the beam, and had a depth of 175 feet.

The depth of the boat, approximately that of the Seelbach Hotel, was divided into ten decks or stories. These were the sun deck, upper promenade deck, promenade deck, upper deck, saloon deck, main deck, middle deck, lower decks for the cargo and engines.

She had cabin accommodations for 2,000 passengers in addition to the officers and crew.

Ollie James Thinks Roosevelt Will be Nominated.

A special dispatch from Washington to the Louisville Herald, Monday said: Senator-elect Ollie James, thinks that Col. Roosevelt's nomination for President by the Republicans is now absolutely assured.

Senator Bradley declined tonight to express any opinion on the result in Pennsylvania and what it portends.

NO CREEK

April 17.—Sabbath school at Wesley Chapel, was organized last Sunday.

Miss Beside Renfrow who has been attending school in Grayson county for some time, returned home last week.

Mr. P. D. Treadwell has purchased the property where he now resides from Mr. John W. Sanderfur.

Mrs. Chester Wart and little daughter, of McHenry, are visiting her mother, Mrs. Mollie Ellis.

The pretty weather is not only welcomed by the farmers, but the R. F. D. carriers, who are expected to resume their duties, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather. Routes 3 and 7 are to be congratulated as having two of the best carriers in the county.

Mr. Ellis Henry and family visited his parents near Pleasant Ridge, Sunday.

Mr. J. B. Wilson and little son Bill, were in our midst one day last week.

Mr. Ellis Foster and sister Miss Emily, Hartford, visited their parents Sunday.

Mrs. S. P. Sanderfur spent several days last week at Centertown.

Most all of our farmers expect to deliver their pooled poultry to Beaver Dam this week.

We are glad to note the improvement of Mr. J. B. Rowan, of Heflin, who has been quite sick.

On account of the high water travel had to be suspended on the No. Creek for a few days last week.

NAVAL CRUISEERS TO RESCUE.

President Taft late this afternoon directed the Secretary of the Navy to order the four cruisers Salem and Chester to the scene at once from Hampton Roads to meet the Carpathia and send in by wireless to the Government a complete list of the Titanic's survivors. PENNSYLVANIA IS FOR TEDDY

In Primary Gets 67 of 76 Delegates.

Gov. Wilson Also Captures All But Two Members of Delegation.

DOORS CRASH IN POLITICAL RIOT

Battering of Sledgehammers a Feature.

Democrats at Chicago Have Stormy Time and Militia Was Called.

Philadelphia, April 14.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt's sweeping victory in Pennsylvania at Saturday primary election kept growing today as the returns continued to come in.

Incomplete returns from every district give the former President sixty-five of the State's seventy-six delegates in the Republican National Convention. The Roosevelt supporters are claiming sixty-seven and later returns may carry the figures to that total.

Col. Roosevelt won fifty-three of the sixty-four district national delegates and his followers elected enough delegates to the State convention to give them control of that body. The State convention will name twelve delegates at large.

Gov. Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, who had no organized opposition, will have seventy-four of the seventy-six delegates from Pennsylvania in the Democratic National Convention. In the Eleventh Congressional District the two Democratic national delegates elected are favorable to Gov. Judson Harmon, but they are not pledged.

PENROSE NEARLY OUT.

Politicians look upon the triumph of Col. Roosevelt with astonishment. The supporters of the former President were without a State organization or without an organization in many of the thirty-two congressional districts.

The regular Republican organization headed by United States Senator Penrose, who has withstood the fury of many a political storm, received a crushing defeat in the loss of control of the State convention. It is the first time in the present generation that it has lost control of that body.

In addition to naming the twelve delegates-at-large to Chicago, the convention will select thirty-eight presidential electors, four candidates for Congressmen-at-large, and candidates for State Treasurer and Auditor General, all to be voted for at the November election.

The significance of the Roosevelt victory can be realized when it is remembered that the delegates in control of the State convention have the power door, barricaded with trunks and furniture gave way. County Judge Owens and Commissioner Czarnecki entered. Captain Oxtigan who commanded the guardmen, was arrested but was released on habeas corpus proceedings.

The Hearst-Harrison precinct committee men, who had been standing in line wearing badges inscribed "Harrison," entered the building.

HOLD ANOTHER CONVENTION.

Commissioner Czarnecki called the roll and the machinery of the convention was turned over to the delegates. Not a man of the Sullivan forces was present. Instead they and the Democrats, known as Dunne men, remained outside and after a long delay, left the vicinity of the armory and held a convention at another hall.

As a result the State convention will be called on to decide between the two sets of delegates.

FAIRVIEW

April 15.—Sunday school is progressing nicely at this place with Mr. J. R. Wilson as Superintendent and Miss Jessie Acton, Secretary. Sunday school meets every Sunday evening at two o'clock. Everybody is invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Wilson visited Mr. Wilson's uncle Joe Mitchell Friday. Mr. Mitchell has been confined to his room for some time with drowsy.

Mr. Guy McDaniel happened to a very serious accident Sunday morning while playing. He fell from a swing and broke his collar bone. Dr. J. S. Bean was called to dress his wound and he is getting along fairly well.

Mrs. Net White and little daughters Lelly and Willie, visited Mrs. C. E. White Sunday night.

Masters Briscoe and John L. White spent Saturday night with their cousin, Master Felix White.

Loren and Eva R. White visited their cousins, Miss Florence and Stella Nabors, Thursday and Friday.

Death of Alex Rowan.

Livermore, Ky., April 15.—Captain Alex H. Rowan, forty-seven years of age and one of the best known river men of this section of Green river, was drowned at 11 o'clock Saturday morning about two and one-half miles above Livermore, near Jamestown. His body was recovered about 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Captain Rowan was the owner of the gasoline towboat, Jolly Tom, and at the time of his death was engaged in taking a raft of logs down to the Smith Cooperage Company at Livermore. The raft was ahead of the boat, which was going down the river. The tow drifted against the bank and struck some trees that hung out over the water and Captain Rowan stepped from the boat onto the raft for the purpose of pushing it out into the river. He stepped between two logs in such a manner that he was unable to extricate his foot and the raft was carried down under the boat with him on top of it, crushing and drowning him between the raft and the bottom of the boat.

An account of the accident was telephoned to Livermore and another boat was sent out at once. The little boat was pulled off the raft and the body of Captain Rowan was recovered and taken to his home in this city.

For a number of years Captain Rowan had engaged in the towing business up and down Green River and was a very popular man. Several years ago he was landlord of the Commercial Hotel in Hartford and was well known there. He is survived by a wife and two children, Miss Annie Laura Rowan, sixteen years of age, and Tanner Rowan, twenty-one years of age. Two sisters, Mrs. Maude Peary, of Little Rock, Ark., and Mrs. Julia Atherton of Nuckols, and one brother, Mr. Louis Rowan, of Livermore, also survive him.

FUNERAL HELD MONDAY

Livermore, Ky., April 16.—The funeral services of Capt. Alex H. Rowan were held Monday afternoon in the M. E. church, south, Rev. J. A. Bennett, of Utica, preaching the funeral sermon.

After the services at the church, the local camp of the Woodmen of the World took charge of the remains and buried them with the honors of the order of which he was a member. There was an immense concourse of people in attendance, as Captain Rowan was loved by all who knew him.

Notice.

All persons having claims against the estate of Willie P. Pirtle, will present the same to me at Hartford, Ky., properly proven, on or before May 1, 1912, or they will be forever barred.

MEXICO GIVEN ORDERS BY U. S.

Instructions Forwarded to Rebel Forces Also.

Government Warned that American Life and Property are to be Safely Guarded.

Washington, D. C., April 14.—Warning was issued today by the United States to the Mexican Government, as well as to General Pascual Orozco, chief of the revolutionary forces, that "it expects and must demand that American life and property within the Republic of Mexico be justly and adequately protected, and that this Government must hold Mexico and the Mexican people responsible for all wanton or illegal acts sacrificing or endangering American life or damaging American property, or interests."

The attitude of the United States, as expressed to both the Federal and rebel authorities is that any maltreatment of American citizens "will be deeply resented by the American Government and people, and must be fully answered for by the Mexican people."

WILSON'S STATEMENT. Acting Secretary Huntington Wilson, of the State Department, who today issued special instructions to Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson, at Mexico City, and Marion Letcher, American Consul at Chihuahua, authorized the statement that intervention was not contemplated by the United States.

Ambassador Wilson was ordered to communicate at once the views of the United States to the Mexican Minister for Foreign Affairs, and a copy of his instructions was likewise sent to Marion Letcher, American Consul at Chihuahua, with special representations addressed to General Orozco.

Orozco recently refused to recognize Mr. Letcher as the American Consular representative, because the United States withheld recognition of the rebel cause. The representations to Orozco accuse him of "practical murder" of Thomas Fountain, and American gunner, enlisted with the Federals, but summarily executed last week when taken prisoner by the insurrectionists.

ASK HUMANE TREATMENT. Though declining to justify participation by Americans on either side of the revolution, the United States expressly stipulates that American combatants, when taken prisoner, must be given humane treatment in accordance with the international rules of war.

The correspondence made public tonight is admittedly the strongest demand the United States is known to have made upon Mexico for respectful treatment of Americans as well as other foreigners, and declares that a continuation of illegal acts is tending "to difficulties and obligations, which it is to the interest of all true Mexican patriots, as it is the desire of the United States, to avoid."

INSTRUCTIONS ARE GIVEN.

The instructions to Ambassador Wilson, sent by telegraph today, were as follows:

"You will immediately communicate the following to the Minister for Foreign Affairs.

"The enormous destruction constantly increasing of valuable American properties in the course of the present unfortunate disturbance; the taking of American life contrary to the principles governing such matters among all civilized nations; the increasing dangers to which all American citizens in Mexico are subjected; and, the seemingly possible indefinite continuance of this unfortunate situation compel the Government of the United States to give notice that it expects and must demand that American life and property within the Republic of Mexico must be justly and adequately protected, and that this government must hold Mexico and the Mexican people responsible for all wanton or illegal acts sacrificing or endangering American life or damaging American property or interest there situated."

A BOOK THAT HAS NO STOPPING PLACES!

At Least You Won't Stop Until You Have Read it From Cover to Cover

"THE VULTURE'S CLAW" BY REV. C. F. WIMBERLY, OF MADISONVILLE, KY.

"The Vulture's Claw" is an absorbingly interesting story, with a deep religious moral. The story takes its name from a miserly, grasping hypocrite whose left hand is deformed into the shape of a claw and his character is so much like a vulture that the title of the book is peculiarly apt. Mr. Wimberly introduces more than a dozen interesting characters and a multiplicity of situations which he handles with a master hand. His descriptive work is nothing short of genius. Most of the action takes place in the remote Ozark mountains and much of it hangs upon the coming into the mountains of a school mar'm who infuses new life and ambition into the community; and in coming of a Methodist minister with whose beautiful character the reader readily falls in love. "The Vulture's Claw" is a remarkable story of hardship depicting the unfavorable environments of remote mountain sections; of the influence of one or two strong personalities upon the lives of many people, and through every page runs a double romance which absorbs the interest of the reader.

RELIGIOUS DENOMINATIONS

Are Making Big Gains in Their Cause.

World Convention Scheduled to Meet in Louisville Oct. 15-22.

The current issue of the official year book of the Disciples of Christ contains some very interesting information, relative to the growth and emphases of this particular religious denomination.

Official figures from all sources show that on December 31, 1911, this body had 11,280 active churches, with an aggregate membership of 1,375,000, making it rank fourth among the Protestant bodies of the Anglo-Saxon race in America and sixth among all the Christian bodies.

In comparing the growth of the Disciples with that of the ten other leading religious bodies, the compilers of the Year Book have graded the list according to the numerical strength and gain of each denomination: Roman Catholic, Methodist Episcopal, Regular Baptist Church South, Regular Baptist Colored, Methodist Episcopal South, Disciples of Christ, Presbyterian North, Regular Baptist North, Protestant Episcopal, Lutheran Synodical Conference, Congregationalist.

It also shows that in moving up from the eighth to the sixth place they passed the Presbyterians and Regular Baptists, the largest gain for the year being 11,900 made by the Catholic bodies; the Methodist coming next.

But, if taken in single religious bodies, they would stand in gains in the following order: Roman Catholic 11,900; Disciples of Christ, 8,759; Regular Baptist South, 9,749; African Methodist Episcopal, 4,651; Cumberland Presbyterian, 4,000; Lutheran Synodical Conference, 3,77; Regular Baptist Colored, 3,589; Methodist Episcopal South, 32,000; Greek Orthodox Church, 29,000; Methodist Episcopal Church, 26,946.

Within the official year closing on September 29, 1911, the Christian Missionary Society alone assisted in the support of 101 missionaries, organized 10 new churches and added 12,217 to the membership of the denomination.

With the increased forces placed in the field since that time the Disciples hope to show in all departments at their International Convention in Louisville October 15 to 22, the greatest gain made by them or any other denomination in a single year.

The Louisville Armory, with seating capacity of 20,000 has been engaged for the event and urgent requests sent to every church and mission point to prepare at once for sending delegates which, with the "homing-coating" sentiment directed to former Kentuckians of the faith, will probably swell the attendance to something like 25,000 to 30,000.

Saved by his wife.

She's a wise woman who knows just what to do when her husband's life is in danger, but Mrs. B. J. Flint, Braintree, Vt., is of that kind. "She insisted on my using Mr. King's New discovery," writes Mr. F. "for a dreadful cough, when I was so weak my friends all thought I had only a short time to live, and it completely cured me." A quick cure for coughs and colds, it's the most safe and reliable medicine for many throat and lung troubles—croup, bronchitis, croup, whooping cough, quinsy, tonsillitis, hemorrhages. A trial will convince you. 25cts and $1.00. Guaranteed by all druggists.

New Automatic Pistols for Nation-al Guard.

Washington, April 12.—Secretary of War Stimson will soon begin distributing to the National Guard of the country the new automatic pistol adopted for the regular army to displace the revolver. Assistant Controller of the Treasury Mitchell today decided that the Secretary of War is authorized by Congress to expend $50,000 for that purpose. It will be one year before the entire regular army is finally equipped with the pistol.

"It seemed that my 11 year old boy would have to lose his leg, on account of an ugly ulcer, caused by a bad bruise," wrote D. F. Howard, Aquone, N. C. "All remedies and doctors treatment failed till we tried Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and cured him with one box." Cures burns, boils, skin eruptions, piles, 25cts at all druggists.

FOUNDER OF THE RED CROSS

Society Dies at Age of 90 Years.

Career As Merciful Ministrator to Soldiers On Many Battle-fields Ends.

Washington, April 12.—Miss Clara Barton, founder of the American Red Cross Society, died at her home in Glen Echo, Md., at 9 o'clock this morning. The cause of her death was chronic pneumonia, with which she was stricken about a year ago. Her brother, Stephen Barton, of Boston, was with her when she died. Miss Barton was born at Oxford, Mass., in 1821.

Miss Barton has been confined to her home, "Red Cross," at Glen Echo since last fall, when she returned from a visit to New England. It was thought her trip was beneficial, but soon afterward she was taken severely ill. She celebrated her ninetieth birthday anniversary December 25, when she received many messages of congratulations from all parts of the world.

Clara Barton might properly be called the Florence Nightingale of America. Like her British prototype her works of mercy were not confined to her native land, but were carried even into the eastern hemisphere.

FOUNDED RED CROSS. She will be written down in history as the founder of the Red Cross in America, but her powerful personality also made an indelible impression upon the International organization itself through her active participation in the periodical conferences at Geneva, Curaçao, Rome, Vienna and St. Petersburg.

At these conferences Miss Barton did not hesitate to submit radical amendments to existing rules. Backed by the weight of her extensive experience in time of war and disaster, these were received with favor and generally adopted.

Miss Barton was forty years of age when she first turned her attention to the great works of humanity which have made her name famous. Her experience as a school teacher and the organizer of public school systems in New Jersey taught her methodical habits and gave her the experience in executive work which made her a commanding figure in the direction of Red Cross affairs.

That organization was established in America in 1881 and Miss Barton was its president from that date until 1901. Before that time she had made a name for herself by her services on battle-fields, beginning in the Civil War and extending through the Franco-Prussian War.

AIDED BY CONGRESS.

Congress recognized her good offices in the first case by an appropriation of $15,000 to be disbursed by her in strening for missing men after the various great battles of the war.

Miss Barton's work became more extended with the organization of the American Red Cross and covered the new field of catastrophes in time of peace. She distributed relief to the sufferers from the Johnstown flood and went to Russia in 1882 to carry food to the famine sufferers there. In the following year she was ministering to the destitute survivors of the tidal wave which struck South Carolina and Florida.

In 1886 she was aiding the Armenian families decimated by the Turks and when yellow fever appeared among the American troops in Cuba following the battles around Santiago, it was Clara Barton, who at the request of president McKinley, organized field hospitals and personally spent her time on the battle lines. Her last work of national importance was in connection with the great Galveston flood relief in 1900.

In 1901 the Red Cross was reorganized, President (then Secretary) Taft being chosen as President, and Miss Barton, then far advanced in age, and somewhat broken in health from exposure and hardship, retired from active connection with the organization.

LIVED IN MARYLAND.

She has resided for the last seven years at her home at Glen Echo, Md., on the banks of the upper Patowmack. During her lifetime she received many decorations from foreign countries in recognition for her services to humanity and her varied experiences have been recorded in permanent form in her liberal contributions to literature, mostly relating to the activities of the Red Cross.

STRANGE ROMANCE ENDS IN DIVORCE

Brother and Sister, After Marriage and With Children, Discover Kinship.

Cincinnati, April 15.—A strange story which resulted in John P. Buch, Jr., aged twenty-two years, being divorced from his sister, Helen Hoffman Buch, twenty-four, was related in the insolvency court here today. The brother and sister were married October 25, 1900, neither at the time knowing of the blood relationship between them. The discovery of the relationship was disclosed a few weeks ago and the action for a divorce followed.

It was explained to the court that the mistake was possible because of the fact that the mother, for a private reason, had hidden from the children the fact that they were brother and sister, allowing them to believe that the girl was only an adopted child. The husband was given the custody of their two children.

The petition for divorce, filed by the husband, was upon the formal ground of neglect. The divorce was granted upon the ground for the purpose of protecting the young couple, so far as possible, in the record.

The father and mother of the young couple were not in court when the hearing was held.

WM. JENNINGS BRYAN SAYS:

"Rev. C. F. Wimberly, Madisonville, Ky.—My Dear Mr. Wimberly: I have read 'The Vulture's Claw'; it is a splendid story. The book should find a place in Sunday school libraries and among the books for young people. You have succeeded admirably in combining moral lessons with an interesting narrative. I congratulate you.

Yours truly,

"W. J. BRYAN"

AN UPLIFTING FORCE.

A remarkable book; it has that strange infinable charm and power which hold us to the very last page. It shows the battles among the hard environments, and the victories that may be won. It will be an uplifting force in every life which only eternity can measure.—St. Louis Christian Advocate.

IT INSPIRES CONFIDENCE.

Before the eyes of the reader, in clearest outline, is the destructive power of the hypocrite, and the constructive power of the humble pious life. It inspires confidence to splendid success. It is clearly seen that Mr. Wimberly is acquainted with rural life in the South.—United Presbyterian.

SHOULD BE READ.

I consider it one of the best books of fiction I have ever read. It is the kind of fiction that should be read. There is nothing in it but what is elevating and helpful. The plot is well gotten up and there is enough comedy and tragedy both in it to interest any lover of fiction. I thought so much of it that I made a public announcement of the book in the chapel, and urged every student to get it and read it.—M. A. Beeson, Pres. Meridian Male College.

CHAPTER XVIII.

It was mid-afternoon of a sultry day. No air stirred. The Panjab was coaling at Port Said.

O'Rourke eyed the vessel with disfavor from the shore; then dropped into a harbor dinghy, ensconced himself at the tiller-ropes, and caused himself, with his luggage and his man-servant, to be conveyed alongside the steamer.

Near the gangway he was held back; another boat had forestalled him, another passenger was shipping for the East. O'Rourke was interested idly.

He saw a woman, a slight, trim figure becomingly attired in white, with a veil about her head, leave the boat and mount the gangway steps with a springy, youthful step, a cheerful and positive air, a certain but indefinable calm of self-possession. At the top she paused, turned, looked down, watching the transfer of her luggage and her maid. . . . From sundry intangible indications O'Rourke assumed the second woman's figure to be the lady's maid. And so did Danny. The one eyed the mistress, the other her servant, both with interest.

The woman on deck threw back her veil. She seemed to promise uncommon beauty of the English type, full-colored and of classic mold. . . . The Irishman was much too far away to be certain, but he fancied that her gaze wandered toward him and—but this, of course, was only imagination—that she started slightly.

At all events, she was quick to drop the veil and turn away. Her maid joined her, both vanished beneath the canvas awnings. The boat that had brought her sheered off, and O'Rourke was permitted to board the Panjab.

It was a glad day, the O'Rourkes did themselves, as he trod those decks; it saw him definitely started on his way to the East.

O'Rourke roused upon his elbow and peered out of the port of his stateroom. The steamer was plowing through the Bitter Lakes. He saw a string of buoys, a width of water like a jade, a vista of sand, flat, gray, patched with gray-green desert shrub, bounded only by the horizon. . . .

"Damn . . ." said he listlessly. He slipped down again upon his back, panted, and wiped his brow.

Danny, recognizing that he was not expected to respond, and being a young man remarkably acute to diagnose his master's moods, prudently refrained from comment. He sat hunched up on a cabin stool, his intensely red, bullet-shaped head bent low over a bit of chamomile skin, which he was sewing into a rough, sturdy bag.

As the sun dipped beneath the rim of the horizon, a pleasant shadow invaded the stateroom, until that moment blood-red with its level rays. And Danny straightened up, dropping thimble and thread, announcing the completion of his needlework by a brief, contented: "There!"

O'Rourke glanced at the article dangling from his valet's fingers, and slammed the book against the bulkhead at the foot of his berth.

"Finished, is it?" he exclaimed. "Faith, 'tis about time, ye lazy good-for-naught!"

Danny smiled serenely. "And a good job, too, sor," said he proudly. "M'anin' no disrespect to yer honor," he added hastily.

O'Rourke took the subject of discussion in his fingers and examined it searchingly.

"'Twill do," he announced. "'Twill serve its purpose, if no more. Lay out me evening clothes now." He stood up, stopping to stare through the port. "Good enough," he commented on what he discovered without: "'tis passing Sues we are this blessed minute. Praises be, we caught a boat that doesn't stop here."

Danny scratched an ankle thoughtfully. "Tiss, yer honor," he asserted, dubious. "But, for all that, phwat's to hinder anywan from boordin' us be boat, if they shu'd want to?"

O'Rourke turned and eyed the man keenly. "Tis a great head ye have on your shoulders, Danny," he said. "Sometimes ye betray almost canine intelligence. I'm be way of having hopes of ye. Now get ye on deck and watch to see who does come aboard, if anyone, and report to me."

"Tiss, yer honor."

O'Rourke bolted the door after Danny and assured himself that the keyhole was properly wadded, that no crack existed through which his movements might be observed from the gangway. Shrugging his broad shoulders he returned to the seat vacated by his valet and thrust a hand beneath the coat of his pajamas, withdrawing it a moment later, fingers tightly wrapped about a rather bulky object.

And the Pool of Flame lay glittering and stabbing his eyes with shafts of blood-red light.

Into its depths of hellish fire

he gazed long and earnestly, in profound meditation.

But at length, slipping the ruby into the new receptacle and drawing the lanyard tight about its puckered throat, he stood up and threw the loop over his head, permitting the bag with its precious contents to fall beneath the folds of his jacket; and, shaking off the sober mood inspired in him by the study of the stone, rang for a steward, to whom, when he responded, he entrusted a summons for Danny—"if so be it we're clear of Suez."

In the course of five minutes or so Danny himself tapped on the door and presented to his master a beaming face.

"Divvie a sow!" he announced triumphantly. "Sure, 'tis ourselves have given them the slip entirely!"

He fished a brand new kit-box from beneath the berth and, opening it, began to lay out O'Rourke's clothing.

His master indulged in a sigh of relief. "Then no boat put off to us at all?" he questioned indifferently.

"Only wan," replied the servant, "and that wid no wan in ut but a naygur."

"A negro?" demanded O'Rourke, fuming about. "What do ye mean? Did he come aboard?"

"Sure and he did that, yer honor, and caught us be no moore thin the skin av his tath and—"

O'Rourke bent over the man and seizing him by the shoulders swung him around so that their eyes met

Gently but Firmly Twisted Him Around by the Ear.

The wanderer gave the ear another tweak, by way of enforcing the lesson. "Prynn, is it? And how did you learn that, Danny?"

"Twas her maid told me, sor. Leggo, yer honor, plaze—"

"And how did her maid come to tell ye, ye great ugly, long-legged omadhaun?"

"Sure—ow!—twas only a bit av a kiss I was by way av givin' her, sor—"

"That'll do, Danny," O'Rourke chucked.

The peal of the trumpet announcing dinner interrupted his contemplated lecture on the ethics of investigation and the perils of flirtation as between maid and man servant.

How to Invest One's Fortune.

A gentleman who, according to his own statement, recently came into $100,000 left by an eccentric but indolent uncle, and decided to advertise for disinterested advice as to the manner of his investment, writes a brief article in the Strand Magazine on the results of his unusual procedure.

The advertisement was inserted in a New York newspaper. Two days later he strolled down to learn if there were any answers. They were. The clerk in the department handed out six bulky packages, 60-odd letters in all, and in a cord to tie them together and confidentially advised him to get a handcart.

He spent a whole day reading them, but to his regret found that there were practically no disinterested writers and very few suggestions that looked reasonably safe and practical. One of the most earnest replies, for instance, was from an inventor who had an idea that he said, would unquestionably net $50,000. Only $100 would float the scheme and the investor would receive half of the proceeds.

Then there was a physician, an English specialist of note, who needed $2,000 or $3,000 to equip offices in New York. He was a specialist on women's troubles and he had no doubt, in view of the debilitated condition of the sex in America, he would soon be able to guarantee the obliging lender of the amount above mentioned very handsome dividends.

The advertiser was particularly struck with the enthusiasm of one correspondent who wanted him to invest the entire amount in a wonderful self-soaping washboard. This washboard, according to the correspondent, saved the washer from the disagreeable necessity of handling the soap, cut down the time of washing fully one-fifth, saved half the soap, gave superior results, and cost no more to manufacture than the ordinary washboard.

When he came to a post card from Helene, a lady who asked him to reply in the personal column of a certain newspaper, the thought for a moment that he had certainly found a disinterested adviser. Helene wrote as follows:

"Be satisfied with your $100,000 and don't speculate. If you must have something to do, buy income property and take care of it yourself. If you have never traveled place your money out on mortgage and travel. If single get married and let some good woman enjoy your fortune with you. If I were better acquainted could give you more advice. Above all, don't lose your money. Answer by personal ad in tomorrow's paper."

After thinking it over a bit, however he concluded that even she had an eye to securing a personal share in the estate left by his uncle. The expressed desire for a further acquaintance left small doubt on that point. Helene wanted either to marry him or be his personal pianist and fortune tiler.

To sum up, the gentleman says that he received offers to run plays, mount operas, finance dressmakers, start amusement parlors, speculate in every mining and industrial scheme in the country, and even to help start a new religion. All of which, for reasons that hardly need be mentioned, he respectfully declined to entertain.

He concludes with the statement that in the end he took no one's advice, but invested his money according to his own discretion. Which was certainly wise, if the only source of advice he had was the queer crew that answered his queer advertisement.—INTER-OCEAN.

Conversation.

"I see you only have one chair in the kitchen, Mary. I must get an other one for you."

"Tis a brave detective ye would make, Danny. Ye have me meaning entirely!"

"Aw, yiss." Danny's lips tightened as he laced O'Rourke's patent-leather shoes. He cast up at his master's face an oblique glance of disapproval. "I mind the wan ye mane," he admitted.

He rose, and as he did so, O'Rourke gently but firmly twisted him around by the ear and as deliberately and thoughtfully kicked him.

"What the divvie is the matter with ye, Danny?" he inquired in pained remonstrance. "It is mad ye are, or have ye no judgment at all, ye scut, that ye speak to me in that tone?"

Solicitorily Danny rubbed the chafed portion of his person, grumbling but unrepentant.

O'Rourke grinned tolerantly, retaining his hold upon the servitor's ear.

"Her name?"

"Ow, yer honor, leggo . . .

"Missus Prynn, sor!"

Stops Lameness

Sloan's Liniment is a reliable remedy for any kind of horse lameness. Will kill the growth of spavin, curb or splint, absorb enlargements, and is excellent for sweeny, fistula and thrush.

Here's Proof.

FRIDAY, APRIL 19.

Looks like that "hat" will spread out until it covers the entire ring yet.

Our Democratic friends will now have the boards and give us an exhibition of what they can do in the old fashioned Mass Convention.

If the Republicans in Kentucky had been given a primary election on the 6th of April every congressional district would have gone for Col. Roosevelt, and his majority would not have been less than 50,000 in the entire State.

One who read the late account given by the Hartford Herald, only, of the Republican Mass convention was, no doubt, led to believe that it was a very disorderly affair, whereas, the truth is that except for enthusiasm displayed at several periods of the convention it was one of the most orderly, as well as the largest convention ever held in Ohio county.

We trust that the Fiscal Court for Ohio County will yet be able to build the section of pike on the Calhoun road where the citizens subscribed $1,000 to assist in the work, which we understand was to be only three miles in length. This road leads into one of the richest farming sections in Ohio county, and the people who are so enterprising as to offer such liberal aid to the county should not be disappointed.

If the Democratic legislature had done its duty Kentucky would have decided both the Republican and Democratic contests for President by primary elections where every voter could have had a fair opportunity to express his choice. This feature of the primary was purposely omitted, as we are reliably informed at the behest of certain Democrats and Republicans, who knew they could best carry out their schemes in the manipulation of conventions.

Ohio County Republicans should not forget that on Saturday, May 1st, at two o'clock p.m. they will be expected to meet in their various precincts to elect members of the County Executive Committee. See to it that the very best men are selected for this position. Besides, see that they are not selected by a mere handful of Republicans, who may attend the meeting, but that every Republican in the precinct attends and have a voice in the selection.

Our people are looking forward with high hope to the prosperity which is sure to come to Hartford and Ohio county because of our recent oil discoveries. Hartford is the best point in the Green River Country for manufacturing enterprises and our citizens should not hesitate to offer liberal inducement to people as an encouragement to make financial investments here. With an abundance of water and coal, river and railroad facilities for shipping, as well as a plentiful supply of timber, all combine to make this point a splendid location for any kind of manufacturing establishment.

Among the office holders who supported Mr. Taft during the late contest in Kentucky, there was one against whom no charge of unfair methods could be brought. Hon. M. L. Heavrin, who was chairman of the Fourth Congressional District and post master at Hartford, in calling the convention to order at Elizabethtown, was required to pass upon two contested delegations in the preliminary organization, one from Breckenridge and the other from Hardin county, and both sides complimented him upon the fairness of his ruling, which was in absolute accord with the rulings of the party. However, in many parts of the State, these federal office holders, who happened to be committeemen acted in the most arbitrary manner possible, even in many instances in such a way as to change the result in their counties. Let us have no more County Mass Conventions. The method is antiquated and wholly impracticable.

The present Democratic Board of Equalization has placed a rate of 15 per cent. upon town lots, lands and personal property subject to equalization in Ohio county. This is the heaviest raise which has ever been made for Ohio county, and if permitted to stand will cost the tax payers several thousand dollars. However, County Judge Wedding will appoint a committee to go before the Board and endeavor to induce them to rescind this action. As the present administration is in the sore need of money because of the creation of so many new offices and the raising of salaries, besides needless, enormous appropriations it is not likely that a redaction can be secured. Let us see, was it last fall that Congressman Ben Johnson, A. O. Stanley, Mr. John Rica, and others who spoke at the Ohio County Fair Grounds, induced a Republican Board of Equalization for raising values? Seems to us that we heard something of that sort. We wish we had the exact language before us, so that we could see whether or not it would fit the present case.

The results of the primary elections in Illinois, Pennsylvania, and other states have practically eliminated President Taft as a candidate before the Chicago Convention. Even before the results were known in Pennsylvania, his friends were considering a third candidate. We predict that very few delegates from now on will be instructed for the President and that Roosevelt will almost sweep the platter clean. Eliminating the uninstructed vote and the contested delegations, Col. Roosevelt now leads the President in delegate votes, and it is known that much more than one half of the contested must necessarily be decided in favor. If any consideration whatever is to be given to Justice or fairness. The race of Col. Roosevelt has been the most remarkable in the history of the country, and shows the wonderful personality and magnetism of the man. Unlike the President he had no organization to begin with, and no office holders at his beck and call, holding down Federal jobs and who felt for that reason compelled to go the limit, and sometimes beyond the limit in controlling county and district conventions. When the people are for a candidate it is better for the politicians and office holders to suffer them to have their way first than last.

Resolutions of Respect.

Resolutions on the Death of Mr. D. Ford.

At a recent meeting of the Ohio County Union, American Society of Equity, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

1. Resolved, That the Ohio County members of the American Society of Equity have learned with profound sorrow of the death of their brother and co-laborer Mr. D. Ford, which occurred since our last regular meeting.

2. Resolved, That in the death of Mr. Ford this union has lost one of its most valuable and untiring workers, and one who has filled the position of County treasurer for many years in a most acceptable manner, and who had also done valuable work as a member of the finance committee, and as grader for the Hartford Warehouse. In every position in connection with this organization, we found him to be true, honest, capable, and generous in his dealings with his brethren and with his fellow man, and his advice and counsel will be greatly missed by our organization.

3. Resolved, That we tender to his bereaved family our sincere sympathies in their great loss and that a copy of these resolutions be furnished them, and published in the county papers.

The Farmer is a Road Builder.

Years ago farmers used to stand around in each other's way waiting for a job working the roads. There also was some rivalry as to who should be the road overseer in each road district. All that has changed and the change has been so great that now a condition exists that is exactly resumed after the rain. At such a time, when the surface of the grade is opposite to that of a few years ago, begins to crumble and to pack rather than roll up on the wheels of the passing vehicles, the drag men should be kept busy, and every farmer living where road dragging is done or should be done ought to be allowed to work out his poll tax, at least, by dragging the roads. A great many road officers are now hiring farmers to do certain roads, allowing them pay by the hour or by the mile, and in this way more good is obtained from the road money than in any other, and the farmers are able to do the work and do it considerable length of time, hauling at the exact time when it needs to be or repairing grades, has always put done. The average farmer has always been rather a poor road builder, not because he may have lacked the knowledge of how to put up a good grade or build a good culvert, but because he has always made road work secondary to his own work on the farm. The farmer, if he has worked for any considerable length of time, hauling at the exact time when it needs to be or repairing grades, has always put done.

The farmer as a road builder cannot afford to neglect his own work until after harvest or until well cannot afford to neglect his own work on into the fall. It is then a case of hurry to get the work done before farm work calls the help in. So as long as farmers have built roads and as long as they ever will it will be a case of doing good to the roads when there is no good to be done on the farm. Instead of being treated in a secondary manner, the people of this day realize that the roads are important enough to be treated with the first consideration of good men who put in all their time and best talent to that work alone.

The farmer as a road builder is better situated than anyone else, however, to perform one part of road building, a part which is most important after a grade has once been put up. This is road dragging. It is most fortunate that road dragging should be done just at a time when the farmer has the time in which to do it, a little before the fields have dried enough so work in them can be Addington on April 6, 1892.

For more than half a century she had loved and labored for her church, and in later years, when she was no longer able to take an active part in the church and Sunday School, she kept in touch with both through her church papers and the Home Department of the Sunday School. When quite young she joined kindness which she received from loved ones and friends during her last illness. Truly it can be said of her life that it was full of faith and good works, which can never die, for they will live on through all eternity in the lives of those whom she has touched, and imbued with her own Godly walk. For such a life,

"There is no death!
What seems so is transition;
This life of mortal breath
Is but a suburb of the life eternal,
Whose portals we call death."

Your committee respectfully recommends that this tribute to the memory of Mrs. Addington be spread upon the records of the Sunday School and published in the Christian Advocate, and both county papers.

FAKERS GET MILLIONS

Every Year Declares Postmaster General.

"Promoters" Schemes Cover Every Possible Phase Of Industry.

Washington, D. C., April 8.—Postmaster General Hitchcock, the bane of fake mining promoters and other get-rich-quick artists, estimates that the people of this country, during the past ten years, have been robbed of $10,000,000, through fake of every kind, patent medicines, mining, real estate and reclamation projects. The Postmaster General estimates that the American people are the most credulous people on the face of the earth. While Mr. Hitchcock refrains from putting his thoughts into words, he nevertheless comes to the conclusion that the American people will take a chance at anything.

As a result of a year's crusade against the get-rich-quick schemes, who have been using the United States mails in the consummation of their nefarious schemes. Mr. Hitchcock says that a distinct type of criminal has been developed. During the last year, he says, the American public has been swindled out of nearly $7,000,000. The schemes used by the "promoters" cover every possible phase of industry and business life, from the gale of a single fake article of a medical character to a prodigious mining scheme, well figured out on paper and existing only in the mind of the promoter.

BIG COMMERCIAL HELP.
The crusade conducted by Mr. Hitchcock against these fakers has been a great commercial help to the country, in one case, a single fraud operator or combinations of operators manipulating railroads bills of lading and acting as agents for insurance companies were able to obtain $2,500,000 from foreign cotton buyers and at the same time destroyed the credit and confidence in the mediums of realizing upon the offering of cotton in the market. This was done through bogus bills of lading sent through the medium of the United States mails.

These wealthy fraud artists, Mr. Hitchcock says, invest their money in legitimate enterprises and many of them consequently become promoters of banks, owners of manufacturing plants and other wealthy and influential organizations. Because of their position and high station in life, it is a difficult matter to convict them, as their resources appear to be unlimited.

PROMOTERS ARRESTED.
"However," the Postmaster continues, "during the past year more than a regiment of these promoters have been taken into custody by the United States Government, their business disrupted and nearly 200 of them convicted within six months on charges of fraud. Among this number are some eight or ten millionaires who are serving terms of imprisonment in Federal penitentiaries.

"Heretofore," continued Mr. Hitchcock, "it has been the policy of the Post-office Department to utilize what is known as the fraud order, directing the postmasters to refuse to deliver mail addressed to these illegitimate concerns. The order must be applicable to some special organization or individual immediately upon the issuance of the order the enterprising schemer recognizes the same scheme under a new name, uses, with a slight change, practically the same literature, retains the old mailing list, and in many cases is doing business at the same old stand.

DRIVEN OUT OF BUSINESS.
"The crusade conducted by the department against the operators has been vigorously pursued and has resulted in scattering a large number of the smaller operators, who usually become frightened at the attitude of the Post-office Department. These smaller people have been driven out of business entirely.

"These promoters can hardly be estimated. Some two thousand complaints have been received at the Post-office Department, but the limited corps of officers who are engaged in ferreting out these criminals enables the department to reach only some five hundred of them per annum. It may be estimated within reason that these frauds exceed $10,000,000 annually. This enormous amount of money is taken from that class of people who can ill afford to lose it; people who work on a salary basis, widows, orphans, school teachers, ministers and, in many instances, persons connected with the army, enjoying positions of life tenure.

FEW COMPLAINTS MADE.
"One of the most peculiar features of the fraud business is the disinclination on the part of the public to make complaints. The average person would rather forget the investment of the money than to have his neighbor know that he had been caught in the meshes of the promoter or had been the 'sucker' at the end of the bait."

Mr. Hitchcock gives the public press a great deal of credit in running the "fakers" to earth. The publicity of the methods employed by the shrewd schemers, he says, has opened the eyes of the American people to such an extent that the officers of the Postoffice Department report that hundreds of the promoters have voluntarily closed their places of business and departed for places unknown.

By stamping out the Mahay gang during the past year, the postal officers feel that one of the most gigantic and best organized organizations of swindlers has been broken up. This band of thieves and gamblers made a business of organizing and promoting fake horse races, wrestling, boxing and other athletic tournaments all over the country. It is believed that they got no less than $5,000,000 from the American public through their operations during the past few years.

Medical schemes and fakers have reported to have obtained somewhere in the neighborhood of $25,000,000. Land dealers reclamation projects, fruit farms, onion farms and numerous other projects, such as strawberry farms in Porto Rico, and like schemes are estimated to have a revenue of from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 to the promoters.

A WOMAN'S GOOD LOOKS

Depend on her general health and freedom from pain. Many a woman looks old before her time because of those irregularities which are essentially feminine. Starting from early womanhood, she suffers from frequently recurring derangements which upset her womanly health. If she be beautiful she grows into that mellow age without wrinkles and crowfeet about the eyes or the blue circles underneath. It is invariably the rule that such women suffer little, or not at all, from womanly derangements which sap the health and leave in the face the tell-tale story of pain and suffering. Dr. R. V. Pierce, the famous specialist in the diseases of women, found a prescription in his early practice that suited the organism peculiar to womanhood—called the machinery, as it were, of the human system—and helped the woman to pass those painful periods that scared and aged her face. This remedy became the well-known Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, that has benefited thousands of women and saved them from misery and suffering at different periods in life.

Mrs. HARRIET E. PIERCE, of 211 Bright Street, Sarnia, Ont., writes: "I am a woman, 45 years old, after suffering for three years and doctoring with several different doctors, each one saying it was something different, and the last one, after putting me through a thorough examination, said I was suffering from a growth, which I thought would result in cancer, and I could not live more than two years, but would not live upon right away. I became more and more disengaged but would not consent to the operation as I was too weak and too much afraid, but last, through the advice of a friend, I tried Dr. Pierce's medicines and after using two bottles of the favorite Prescription, I was well again. I am now in full health and have no trouble with my eyes, and I can now take a walk without any trouble. I am now taking Dr. Pierce's tablets, and can easily praise the name of Dr. Pierce's medicines to all who suffer from any female disease, for these medicines are all they are claimed to be, and I hope will help others as they have helped me."

Mrs. PIERCE.

PENNSYLVANIA IS FOR TEDDY.

to select the State chairman, and under the party rules the delegation to the national convention elects the national committeeman. At present Senator Penrose holds both positions.

ORGANIZATION MAY WIN.

It was said by a prominent member of the State Committee tonight that some of the Roosevelt delegates elected to the State convention are regular organization men who, while voting for Roosevelt delegates, will still stand by the State organization.

Some of the organization leaders refrained from personally entering the primary as candidates for district delegates as it had been expected they would be selected as delegates-at-large. Among those understood to have been looked upon as the likely delegates were Senator Penrose and Oliver, Gov. Tener, Secretary of State Robert McAfee and State Senator James P. McNichol, leader of the party organization in Philadelphia. The vote polled was light. In some districts it did not go much over fifty per cent of the vote at the last general election. Col. Roosevelt is said to have received his heaviest vote from the reform element represented by the Keystone party, which succeeded in electing a reform Mayor in Philadelphia last year.

MINERS FOR T. R.

Another element of strength of the Roosevelt forces was the 17,000 idle anthracite miners, among whom the former President ran strong.

In Philadelphia Taft's adherents captured three of the six districts and split the delegation in another, giving the President seven delegates to Roosevelt's five. The delegates favoring Taft were not instructed. Among those who escaped the Roosevelt storm were John Wannamaker and E. T. Stotesbury, who were elected as Taft delegates in the second district.

In Alleghany county, which includes Pittsburgh, Col. Roosevelt captured all the eight delegates in the four districts.

We are quite sure if our lady readers could see either the Etoile de France or new Crimson Rambler in bloom they would not think of letting the opportunity pass to get these two remarkable roses and four other plants just as good, absolutely free of charge, as advertised in another part of the paper. It is better to wait for the roses in the open. You should order at once to insure getting the plants in time to set them at the right time. Turn to our advertisement before you put down this paper and read the description of the roses offered. Then send us in your order today. Full instructions on how to plant and care for the rose bushes comes with each shipment.

Resolutions of Respect.

Whereas, the sad intelligence of the death of Mr. William Pirtle, brother of James and Ira Pirtle, members of Hartford Camp No. 202, Woodmen of the World, has reached this camp; be it

Resolved, First: That in the death of William Pirtle our brothers have lost a faithful brother and companion; the mother, wife and child have lost an upright loving and just son, husband, and father.

Resolved, Second: That we sympathize with our brothers and the other members of the bereaved family who mourn his departure; but we can only remind them that he is not dead, he is only asleep—resting to await the Resurrection morn.

Resolved, Third: That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the records of Hartford Camp No. 202 Woodmen of the World, a copy sent to the family and a copy furnished to the local newspapers for publication.

Eggs May Hatch Romance.

The New York Herald says:

Two eggs may hatch two romances in the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn. The eggs may have been in storage for an unknown time, but judging from the letters exchanged between the two men who acquired the eggs and the two women who wrote their names and addresses on the shells the wedding bells may soon ring.

Letters and photographs have been exchanged, and the women, who are widely separated and do not know each other, express a willingness to come East.

The pictures have appealed to the other side and the letters exchanged have grown more interesting.

The eggs were received in different consignments in the restaurant of Anthony Shevry, in Broadway, near Bedford avenue. The first egg went to Frederick Dobson of 210 Jackson avenue. Written on it in ink was the name Miss Gall Groot, Belmont, Ill. The other egg was obtained by Joseph Meader, of 491 Woodworth avenue. On the shell was the name of Miss Minnie Kellams, Bardley, Hinsdale, Ill.

Poultry Pointers.

Remember that there is no water in "dry mash," which is a mixture of ground grains, and is fed dry.

Bones may be used as a variety food for poultry when they can be obtained at a price that will not make such feed too expensive. They may be fed cooked or ground raw and mixed with mash.

Do not feed fresh meat too freely to chickens as it is liable to cause diarrhea trouble. Three or four feedings a week should be sufficient. A good plan is to hang up a piece of meat for them to pick at.

Nests for setters should be placed in a quiet place, where the birds will not be molested or suit the convenience of the one who attends the hens, but the arrangement of the boxes in tiers, the first one about level with the floor, is an arrangement most commonly adopted.

Give the hen only as many eggs as she can cover comfortably. There is less danger of breakage and the progress of incubation will be more evenly distributed.

Where hens are known to be restless and need some coaxing to get used to sitting with regularity, it is a good practice to first set them on nest eggs, placing the eggs to be hatched under them when they have shown their intention of sticking to their job.

If four to six hens are set at one time the eggs may be tested out at the end of a week, and if not running a large per cent. fertile, may be divided among a sufficient number of brooders to cover them and the other hens reset on new eggs.

Give each hen a thorough dusting before placing her on the nest when setting her. Any good brand of insect powders will do. Work the powder well into her feathers and under her wings down to the skin. This prevents the increase of vermin, which often makes an otherwise good brooder restless and will impregnate the nest so with lice that when the chicks are hatched, they become covered with the vermin before they can be removed, which often results in their death. It is also well to dust the hens a second time just before the chicks hatch.

A dust bath should also be provided for the sitters to dust in when they come off their nests to feed and exercise. It is well to remove sitters at regular periods if they show a tendency to remain on the nest too long at a time.

Little chicks require no food for the first twenty-four hours, at least. Upon removing them to the brood coop, about thirty-six hours after they are hatched, it is a good time to first feed them.

Always keep the brooders and brood coops clean. Cleanliness, pure, fresh air and plenty of wholesome food are the main essentials to the raising of chicks.

The care of chicks in brooders is comparatively a simple matter. The essentials are to keep the chicks comfortable, contented, well fed and happy. Litter the floor well with cut clover, cut alfalfa or chaff from the hay mow, and over this scatter proper feed the right size for the chicks. Keep pure, fresh drinking water in one corner of the brooder in a galvanized iron drinking fountain. A little pile of dry mash containing beef scraps, should also be kept in a corner and replenished when necessary.

It is not only the chicken fancier now that breeds thoroughbred chickens. The farmer has awakened to the fact that like cattle and other live stock he just as well can raise the best strains among his chickens. There are always enough culs or inferior inferior individuals to sell on the market for food, while those that are well-limed, perfectly bailed and correctly marked will bring a fancy price as breeders, even if the owners do not care to exhibit them in show contests.

Dirty eggs, mixed in with clean eggs, lowers the value of the whole lot if sent to the market that way. The soiled eggs should be sent separately. There

WE WILL GIVE AWAY

6 EVER BLOOMING ROSE BUSHES FREE!

We have six well rooted, everblooming rose plants to give away to every woman who reads this advertisement. Owing to the excessive moisture in the ground this spring, these plants will, with ordinary care, grow rapidly and begin to bloom early this summer.

The Varieties Offered.

The varieties are especially selected to please the grower and to insure permanent and satisfactory growth. They consist of:

THE ETOILE DE FRANCE. A clean, rich velvety crimson bloomer, a giant in hardiness and sturdiness. The growth is luxuriant and lusty with great masses of deep colored roses blooming all summer.

MY MARYLAND. One of the most exquisite of all pink roses. Its flowers have an indescribable charm, being composed of thick, heavy petals unsurpassed in elegance of form and deepening in shade as the flower expands—something that can be said of very few pink roses. Its fragrance is delightful and lasting.

KAISER IN AUGUSTA VICTORIA. A most beautiful creamy white rose. It is hardy, vigorous and practically free from disease. The flowers are double and grandly set on long, stiff stems and appear continuously all summer.

STOILE DE LYON. Absolutely the most perfect yellow rose in the market to-day. It blooms in profusion, sending forth a deep golden yellow bloom that is profuse and lasting with an exquisite fragrance.

CLOTHILDE SOUPERT. During the hottest month of summer, when other plants show a withered sickly condition, this rose continues to produce its beautiful white, pink tinted flowers, which always appear fresh and sweet.

CRIMSON RAMBLER. One of the most charming roses ever offered to the trade. This is the first crimson rambler that can really and truthfully be called an "ever bloomer." The flowers are a deep brilliant crimson, measuring from one to two inches in diameter and produced in great clusters. Nothing like it has ever been offered before.

Don't let this opportunity slip.

Send us $1.25, within the next ten days and we will extend your subscription to The Hartford Republican for one year, and the Farmer and Stockman one year. For your promptness we will send you charges prepaid, the six rose plants advertised above. Address all orders to
